SOUTH BAY'S FINEST was also the host of the rafts entered in the raft races Saturday at the Freedom Festival in Pahokee. They were the best because there was no rest and, being the only entry, were automatically awarded the first place prize of a plaque and tee shirts. Manning the raft were Gail McGhee, Bonny Harrelle, Monica Bryson, Randy Davidson and Mickey McGhee.

Basketball program set

PAHOKEE — Some fast action at the Tuesday night city commission meeting got summer recreation program off and running — at least on the basketball court.

Commissioners, with the exception of President Billy McKinstry, arriving late for the meeting found the council chamber filled with young athletes there to petition city help in gaining access to the Pahokee Junior-Senior High School gym.

Serving as spokesman for the high school and college students was Andre Jones who told councilmen the group had obtained permission from the county school board to use the school basketball court five nights a week during the summer, subject to the city's providing a program director.

Before the councilmen arrived McKinstry told the young men that no action was possible without a quorum and that there would not be a scheduled session for another two weeks. The group then approached City Attorney Michael Stauder to learn the procedure for calling a special council session.

On learning that the mayor could call a special session on 24 hours notice, the youths determined to contact Mayor Norma Norman and return Thursday night.

At that point the mayor and commissioners made their entrance and as the first order of business appointed Jones director at a salary of $5 an hour to supervise a basketball program four hours a night, Monday through Friday, for up to six weeks.

Also appearing before council was Randy Mills, director of the Pahokee Housing Authority, who asked for a joint meeting of the two boards to negotiate terms for collecting garbage at the Padgett Island and Fremd Village housing units.

The Authority has purchased a new garbage truck which it proposes to share with the city in exchange for service.

Commissioners will meet with Authority members at 3 p.m. Friday to discuss terms.

Meanwhile, Stauder, who serves as legal counsel to both bodies, said he would have to obtain an opinion from the Florida Bar Association on whether he could represent both sides in negotiating. He said he doubted that it would be a conflict of interests and he believed that it was permissible. Both the commissioners and P-HA have agreed to obtain other counselors if Stauder has to step aside.

In other business, commissioners heard a report from engineer J.R. Sloane that it would be necessary to seek funding through politicians for expanding the solid waste facility and a clarifier and chemical system for the water treatment plant.

PUCKERED UP for his best effort, this youngster was one of several entered in the watermelon seed spitting contest Saturday at the Freedom Festival in Pahokee. The target was a drawing of the Ayyatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

Marina work may not be finished for 15 to 20 years

BELLE GLADE — The addition of 300 new campsites at the Belle Glade Marina and Recreational Area, a project which was supposed to have been completed in 1982, may not be finished before the year 2000.

City commissioners were obviously shocked when they were told by City Manager Robert Sanders in a workshop Monday night that while 100 new campsites may be usable by September, the majority of a proposed expansion of the facility is still under water and may not be completed for another 15 to 20 years.

The expansion is being paid for by the South Florida Water Management District (WMD) under an agreement first proposed in 1973, in which the WMD would expand and raise the level of the city's recreational area in return for title to city-owned land flooded when the level of the lake was raised in 1977.

Because of a variety of delays, the WMD didn't let the contract to Gold Coast Construction Company to begin the first earthwork until October 1977. Plans at that time called for the entire project to be completed within five years.

Phase two of the construction, largely more earthwork, is now underway and Sanders told the commissioners the phase, which was supposed to have been completed this month, is now scheduled for completion by September.

Only about camping vehicles which could be connected to sewer installed in the present phase.

Other campers would have to wait until the large comfort station could be completed.

Under the conditions, the commissioners directed Sanders to set the priority with the large comfort station to be built first, then the pavilion, then a small comfort station, then a fish cleaning station, then the gate house and then more fill area.

When Mayor Ralph Kirk asked Sanders whether there would only be 100 new campsites, Sanders said that would be all in the near future.

"There's more campsites planned," Sanders said, "but that's all south of this part (the part for which the earthwork is now being completed) and it's all under water." He said he had asked a WMD official about it and had been told that wasn't expected to be finished for 15 to 20 years.

Kirk said he thought the 1976 agreement called for 400 to 500 campsites and Commissioner Tom Altman agreed.

adding Sanders shouldn't let the matter drop; that he should contact City Attorney John Baker because the agreement directly affected land which had been owned by the city.

Sanders said he would confer with Baker about the problem.

The agreement between the city and the WMD was first brought up in 1973 during a meeting between city, WMD and U.S. Corps of Engineers officials. The Corps and WMD were planning the raising of Lake Okechobee from an average 15.5 feet above sea level at that time to 17.5 feet in 1977.

The city owned the property occupied by the marina and recreation area and the WMD offered, in return for title to the area, to expand the campground by 300 sites, build a new pavilion in the new area, build a new boat ramp there and then raise the level of the old pavilion and boat ramps and lease it to the city for $1 a year.

The entire project was originally estimated at $1.5 million and the price has escalated over the years.

Youth drowns

BELLE GLADE — A 14-year-old fisherman drowned Saturday when his line snagged in the waters of the Rim Canal at the Marina and he attempted to retrieve it.

The body of Clifford Walker of 440 Osceola Center was finally recovered at 8 p.m. Sunday after divers from the Sheriff's Office and the Belle Glade Police Department attempted to find it Saturday afternoon and for more than five hours Sunday.

Detective J.R. Eberle of the Belle Glade Police Department with James and Johnnie Emory of 838 Osceola Center when the youth went into the water at 4:30 p.m.

Police Auxiliary Officer, Detective James Carney and Patrolman — Dan Crist, searched the water until dark.

Eberle said he took over the organization of the search Sunday morning at 9 a.m. The same divers showed up for the search then and five boats joined in the effort, including the Sheriff's Office Harbor Patrol boat and a Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission boat manned by Officer Randy Mullins.

"We looked until 2:30," Eberle said, "until the divers were so exhausted they could no go any longer."

At 8 p.m., he said an unidentified fisherman saw Walker's body floating some 200 yards from where the search centered. He notified the Police Department and Carney and Patrolman Terry Woods went to retrieve it.

Paralegic drowns

SOUTH BAY — The Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office released Wednesday morning the name of a paralegic who drowned when his wheelchair slipped into the New Miami River Canal five miles south of town on US 27 Monday afternoon.

Detective Ted Keys said the dead man was Norman Floyd, 55, of Tampa. Keys said Floyd was driving with his nephew to West Palm Beach and had stopped to use the restroom by the side of the road at a bridge about half a mile south of the Okeelanta Sugar Mill gate.

Keys said Floyd was crossing the bridge when his wheelchair slipped on steel grating on the bridge roadway and went into the canal. He said the nephew attempted to reach Floyd but was unsuccessful.

Keys said the body was recovered about two hours later by Patrolman Dan Crist of the Belle Glade Police Department.

City's Fifth Street repair project is a step closer

BELLE GLADE — A project designed to fix street repair and maintenance of sidewalks, curbs and gutters on Southwest Fifth Street came a step closer during a Monday night city commission workshop but the scope of the project was narrowed from six to four blocks.

The project, which was originally funded in the 1979-80 budget, at $165,000, was first meant to include both Fifth and Sixth Streets from Southwest Avenue E to Canal Street.

Rapidly inflating prices, however, caused the commission several months ago to relocate $20,000 to a needed relocation fund.

After the city twice advertised the job, however, and Rubin Construction Company was the only firm on both occasions to answer the bid, both times at a price of $165,000, the commission decided Monday to drop the work between Southwest Avenue E and Southwest Avenue C Place and do the work between Avenue C Place and Canal Street for $102,000.

The work is to be done as part of the city's Community Development Program. CD Director Renar Harvin also discussed another possible CD project, under the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD)'s Urban Development Action Grant (UDAG).

Under the UDAG program, the city could apply for any of a number of possible types of projects. Harvin had supplied the commissioner a list of projects available, including such things as cities financing commercial ventures which would supply jobs to the communities, housing and day care centers.

One project the Belle Glade commissioners have been discussing as the possible subject of a UDAG application is a nursing center which Mrs. Margaret Peavy has been promoting for at least the past five years.

Mrs. Peavy has been attempting to finance the center, designed to have 107 beds, through various agencies and Harvin said the center would fit well into the type of projects HUD encourages under the UDAG program.

One of the best things about the nursing center project, Harvin said, is that the city could get a UDAG grant, loan the money to Mrs. Peavy on a long term, low interest basis and, as she pays the money back to the city, use it for other useful projects.

PBJC plans EKG course

BELLE GLADE — Area nurses, EMT's and paramedics are being urged to enroll in a basic EKG course to begin Saturday, July 26, at the Palm Beach Junior College Glades campus.

Sessions will be held July 26, Aug. 2, 9 and 16 from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. for a total of 28 contact hours. The instructor is Thomas Scholl. Fee for the course is $28.

For additional information call 305-995-3005.

Harvin stressed the fact the nursing home is only one possible project the city could concentrate on and said three HUD officials who are supposed to be experts in UDAG grants have offered to come to Belle Glade to help draw up the application.

The commissioners directed Harvin to contact the HUD officials and get back to the commission to set up a meeting. He said the meeting could probably be set up for sometime within the next 30 days.

Harvin had told the commission earlier that while there had been a cap on how large the UDAG grants could be, that cap has now been lifted and HUD officials have said the city could write a project for $20 million or $40 million.

Two airplanes crash

Two light airplanes crashed in the Glades Tuesday and the pilot of one was trapped for several hours before escaping and finding help at a nearby farmhouse while the other pilot escaped without injuries.

Jack DeVoe, 37, of Coral Gables was listed in fair condition in Everglades Memorial Hospital after his Cessna 182 went down in a cow pasture about half a mile east of US 96, six miles from 20 Mile Bend, according to a report by Sgt. John Raiterson and Deputy Dennis Maynor of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office substation in Belle Glade.

Meanwhile, Freddie P. Lange, age and address unknown, was uninjured when his Cessna 150 crashed on Shelton Cattle Ranch south of South Bay, according to Deputy Mike Stull.

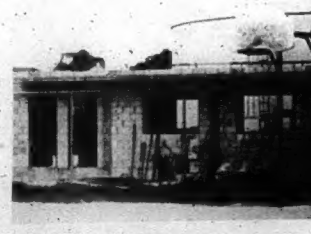

Lange's plane crashed near the site where a Cessna 440 was down several months ago. His light plane crashed at 4:42 p.m.

DeVoe suffered cuts on his arms, legs and face and was trapped inside for several hours before he managed to squirm free and walk about 300 yards to the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Drawdy. Drawdy is an employee of Glades Correctional Institution's 20 Mile Bend Ranch.

DeVoe apparently crashed his airplane at about 8:30 p.m. Monday but it wasn't until 11:30 a.m. Tuesday that he made it to the Drawdy residence, where Mrs. Drawdy called the ambulance and administered first aid when DeVoe passed out.

Details were sketchy about both crashes Wednesday morning.

A MILLION GALLONS of water will be stored in this ground storage tank in South Bay, possibly as soon as the next six weeks. The tank is only part of a water and sewer project paid for through a grant and loan to the city by the Farmers Home Administration, Acting City Manager Lomax Harrelle said the tank itself is all but complete, leaving the completion of the building to the left, which will house repumping machinery.

So who says our state legislators didn't earn their keep during the past session by passing meaningful legislation.

You can now buy liquor in half-gallon jugs, can't you?

I don't know how the state's lawmakers slipped that one by without the bulk of the state's voters and residents hearing and applauding... or not.

All seriousness aside, though, I never was able to figure out why there should be law that said you couldn't buy your favorite roguish in half-gallon jugs. Seems to me if our legislators were going to allow us to buy two quart-size bottles, what's the difference between that and one bigger bottle?

At any rate, that half-gallon jug law was passed by the lawmakers... just in case you hear anyone badmouthing the state politicians by saying they were do-nothings up in Tallahassee this spring.

And they only had to extend their 60-day session by a few days too!

Then there were some of the other bills passed for your edification, enlightenment, entertainment and pocket-book.

Bills like the non-law that deregulated the trucking and bus industry in the state, which has already had its impact on the Glades in the past.

Bus service will come to a screeching halt on Aug. 1. That bill, according to Ed Healy, is going to save Florida consumers approximately $7 billion a year.

Of course, if you live in a small town like Belle Glade, Pahokee or South Bay, you may not be able to get the kind of service you have grown used to but think of all the money you'll be saving.

The legislature also passed a bill which will allow local school boards to levy an additional two mills... which is sorta nice since the taxpayers increased the amount of their homestead exemption on education taxes from $5,000 to $25,000.

Course it was a shock to everyone concerned when the legislature failed to pass a bill which would allow the voters to say whether or not they wanted single member districts... particularly since that would almost certainly mean some of the legislators would be competing with some of their colleagues for the same seats.

Surprise! Surprise!

In the Ain't It A Small World Department:

Had a letter from the old hometown the other day saying a group of people I graduated from high school with (don't ask when) and, according to a newspaper clipping, they were looking for some of the classmates who'd strayed from the fold so they could put them on the mailing list.

Well, since I was one of the mates who'd strayed, I dialed the phone number given in the clipping and spoke to Mike Miller, one of my contemporaries who's planning the auld lang syne bash for next summer.

I hadn't talked to Mike in more years than I like to think about but in the course of conversation, it turned out he's working for the City of Jacksonville now.

As a matter of fact, turns out Mike and I have a couple of mutual friends on the Jacksonville Fire Department and as a further matter of fact, it turned out Mike was one of the paramedics who answered a call back on May

12. The call was my mother, who was in the middle of a heart attack. By the time Mike and his people arrived, she was in straight line cardiac arrest and the rescue squad brought her around with CPR.

town the size of, say, South Bay but when it happens in Jacksonville, that's something else.

That's not what I'd call one of your basic, everyday garden variety coincidences but taking the whole thing one step further, if the call had been made the next night, one of the men answering the call would've been a friend I've known for about 30 years.

That kind of coincident is one thing when it happens in

Sunshine State Games begin is Saturday

Applications for the Sunshine State Games track elimination events at Twin Lakes High School this Saturday will be accepted as late as the day of the competition, according to Glades Central Coach Jay Seider, who is working with some of the potential entrants.

Seider said a number of youngsters have been working out and training at the Glades Central gymnasium and track field for the upcoming games and he is in high hopes the Glades will be represented in the competition finals in Gainesville in August.

The district elimination games will be held at Twin Lakes on Saturday, beginning at 1 p.m. for track and field events.

The competition will be broken down into three age groups; the Junior Division (ages 13-14), the Senior Division (15-17) and the Open Division (18 and over).

Seider said he still has application forms at the high school for anyone interested in joining the competition. He also said he would be taking some of the contestants to Twin Lakes for the elimination and would take others who need transportation along with the understanding they would help pay the costs.

The Sunshine State Games were organized by the Florida Governor's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports and comprise a mini-olympics with competition in 21 different sports, ranging from basketball to kayaking.

Lo and behold, an election-year tax cut

(Reprinted with permission of The Philadelphia Inquirer)

It is said that President Carter is being advised to come out in favor of a tax reduction program. In the Wonderful World of Washington, the hot breath of unattributable inside sources send trial balloons soaring each time public reaction is a source of anxiety. Those balloons, with TAX CUT NOW? flashing from them, are cluttering the skies over the White House.

Unattributable inside sources are being quoted as saying, with grave sobriety, that lo and behold every one of the president's other senior economic advisers populating the Treasury Department, the office of Management and Budget, the Council of Economic Advisers and the White House domestic policy staff — hold your breath — now favor a tax cut.

Never mind that Mr. Carter has been holding firmly to a line that tax-cut proposals must not be discussed until the budget is balanced securely, still an iffy proposition. Never mind, indeed, that virtually every major economic indicator forecasts worsening of recessionary prospects between today and Nov. 4. Never mind that that is the date when a lot of names, almost surely including Mr. Carter's and most of those in the Congress, will be on general election ballots. Never mind that Ronald Reagan, whose name also will almost certainly be on the ballot, and John Anderson, whose name may be, at least in some states, have both come out for cutting taxes.

It is, of course, entirely possible — the gloomier readings of the economic forecasts would say probable — that a tax cut to stimulate a seriously sick national economy will be prudently necessary by autumn. All that notwithstanding, however, there is a certain taint of politics about the whole endeavor.

There is a story, quite possibly apocryphal, that on arriving in Washington as a member of the House, which he later led as speaker, Nicholas Longworth, the Ohio Republican, sought the advice of Sen. Robert Marion of LaFollette, the legendary progressive son of Wisconsin. That legend has it that Sen. LaFollette counseled that there was but a single rule to follow to political success: Never vote for a tax measure and never vote against an appropriation. Things change. But not much.

Summer: time for vacations, burglary

People think of the summer months as a time for having fun and taking vacations. Unfortunately some consider the season an excellent opportunity to burglarize temporarily vacated homes. The Insurance Information Institute warns that national crime statistics show August to be the most active month for burglars in the United States.

To keep burglars from doing well at your expense, the Insurance Information Institute suggests adding these steps to a pre-vacation checklist.

- Lock all windows and doors, including those in the attic, garage and basement. Deadbolt or double cylinder locks are your best safeguard. Windows also should be secured.

- Don't leave extra keys in obvious places such as under a doormat, over a door or in the mailbox.

- Make sure your home retains a "live-in" appearance. Discontinue deliveries of mail, newspapers and milk, check list.

Arrange to have the lawn mowed, and circulars removed from the premises.

- Leave the home lights burning. Automatic timing devices are an excellent investment. As a professional burglar put it: "I won't take a chance on a timer even if I see it. Why take a risk when right down the street some fool hasn't got one?"

- Put all ladders out of sight and locked up.

- Don't publicize your vacation. Society or family pages often advertise the trips Floridians will be taking. And burglars read the newspapers. Don't talk about your vacation to strangers.

- Ask a neighbor and local police or the sheriff to keep an eye on your home. Leave a key with the neighbor so he can inspect your home periodically and vary the position of blinds, shades and drapes. Tell police how long you will be gone, who has a key to your house and where you can be reached.

- Store valuables in a safe or safety deposit box. If you must leave valuables in the house, make a detailed inventory before you leave. Appraisals, proof of purchase, serial numbers and other identifying marks should be noted and kept in a safe place separate from the valuables.

The Institute adds a final warning: If you think your house has been burglarized, do not enter it alone. Instead, check with your neighbors and call the police. Barging in on a burglar at work could be a fatal mistake.

OPEC may yet cut U.S. energy bonds

The United States, mostly adrift — on the energy seas since Richard Nixon's call for "energy independence" in 1973, may yet be freed of the shackles installed by the oil-producing nations.

But the credit will go to our energy captors, not to any positive U.S. actions to break the bonds.

Price increases initiated by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries have brought the market price of oil to about $36 per barrel.

And, according to Dan Lundberg, that is in the range of production costs of the so-called alternative energy sources such as oil shale, tar sands, liquefied and gasified coal and fuels from organic material. The publisher of the analytical Lundberg

Letter said such parity has been the OPEC goal — anything less, he says, is tantamount to exploitation of OPEC's finite resources.

Lundberg has emphasized that the OPEC switch from a "floor" price to a "ceiling" price is indicative of the change in policy.

The "extraordinary development" cited by Lundberg should stimulate the drive for alternative fuels to which Congress already has dedicated federal subsidies.

With renewed pressure for a revival of nuclear power, also pledged by utility executives in Chicago, energy independence does indeed seem to be an attainable objective. The Edison Electric Institute is leading a campaign to foster support for nuclear power.

But the group has been effective in blocking persistent efforts to impose nuclear moratoriums.

And the public, too, seems to be aware that what was once considered "the luxury of the nuclear option," in the words of Jack Horton, chairman of Southern California

Edison Co., is now "the nuclear imperative."

The industry determination and the OPEC price pressures together hold the promise of relief from the crude-oil yoke.

The utilities' lobbying organization concedes "the long shadow" cast by the Three-Mile Island incident over the future of nuclear power.

Become a candidate

Every qualified person should make themselves available for public office.

It is that time of year again, when campaign announcements and intentions to qualify for public office fill the news media.

Literature will soon abound in businesses, on car bumpers and in windows. Solicitations for donations will be in the mail. Talk around coffee tables will concern who to vote for and why.

Already, thousands of words have been printed concerning the 1980 elections season, which began with the Presidential campaign months ago.

But now, the adrenalin is flowing about who the candidates will be for scores of state, federal and local elective offices.

In a participatory democracy, it is essential that the people have a choice — for only in a contested election can the people select the person best qualified for the office.

While we do not here question the ability of any incumbent, we prevail upon all qualified citizens to make themselves available for public office.

Qualifications to become a candidate for these offices began noon Tuesday, July 8, and will end noon Tuesday, July 22.

For information on how to become a candidate, how to handle campaign finances and understand state election laws contact the supervisor of elections office in your area.

Cheers, arms

The courage of stubborn Afghan troops seeking to drive Soviet forces from Kabul wins the cheers of Americans concerned over motives of the Soviet Union in the Persian Gulf area.

The determination of the resistance troops to drive the Russians from Kabul keeps the Soviet command in Afghanistan and in Moscow occupied.

But the guerrillas facing Soviet tanks and overwhelming numbers of troops are suffering heavy casualties. They would prefer guns and ammunition to applause.

The battle is necessarily one-sided. The Russian assault has devastated Afghan-held areas. haps with CIA assistance — still a measure of secret pride.

But it is reported that Soviet casualties have been disproportionately high.

And reports that "modest quantities" of German, Belgian and Israeli weapons are finding their way to the Paghman mountains surrounding the capital — per The guerrillas deserve our cheers — and arms.

Watchdog

Most everyone you talk to these days wants to see reduction of spending in government.

But it is hard to get the attention of people in Washington. Take the case of Kurt Mullenberg, the General Service Administration's first inspector general.

His task is to probe for waste and fraud in the scandal-ridden agency.

He is ready to go to work now — after spending $23,000 in taxpayers' money remodeling his wood-paneled office.

Selfish?

Oh good! Now, we have the Russians to correct our government by remarking through Tax about how "selfish" our leaders are in attempting to influence the internal affairs of foreign countries, such as Afghanistan, by expressing doubts about the purity of the Soviet intentions of partial pullout from said nation.

Of course, it wouldn't be considered "intervention in a foreign country's internal affairs" to send 100,000 troops to visit that country with such tourist-oriented equipment as tanks, armored personnel carriers and helicopter gunships. Aren't we lucky?

Insurance rates drop

SOUTH BAY—Good news for homeowners and other property owners has been announced last week by Acting City Manager Lomax Harrelle when he said the city's fire insurance rating has been dropped from 10 to 9.

Harrelle said the change would mean insurance savings for property owners ranging from 20 to 65 per cent.

Harrelle said property owners should contact their insurance companies or mortgage companies to be sure the insurers are aware of the change made recently by the Fire Insurance Underwriters (FIU) after an inspection made of the city.

"The purpose of our visit," according to an FIU letter, "was to gather information needed to determine a fire insurance classification which may be used to develop fire insurance rates. This survey was not conducted for property loss prevention or life safety purposes and no life safety or property loss prevention recommendations will be made."

The new insurance rates, according to Harrelle, became effective on July 1. He said the change from Class 10 to Class 9 would effect rates for some properties in various degrees, depending on the use of the building, the type of construction, the hazard of occupancy and other factors.

He said the overall effect for commercial properties is approximately minus 28 per cent for all types of building construction.

Residential properties insured under homeowners type policies, he said, will realize an approximate premium reduction of 44 per cent for those of wood frame construction and 20 per cent for those of masonry construction.

Residential properties insured under dwelling type policies will experience an approximate premium reduction of 63 per cent for those of wood frame construction and 38 per cent for those of masonry construction.

Harrelle said those estimates apply only for insurance companies using ISO advisory rates but he noted there are numerous insurance companies using other rates and the effects may be different on those policies.

Saturday Night has arrived. Watch for other new arrivals this month.

ADVERTISEMENT FORBIDS

Sealed proposals for furnishing all plant, labor, materials and equipment and performing all work necessary to clean, televise internally, and test and seal joints in the designated sanitary sewer lines for the rehabilitation of a portion of the Avenue "G" sanitary sewage collection system for the City of Belle Glade, Florida, will be received at the Office of the City Clerk, City Hall, Belle Glade, Florida, until 11:00 A.M., July 24, 1980, at which time bids will be opened and publicly read aloud. Bids received after the above time and date are not to be considered and will be returned unopened.

The work consist of the following:
Seal and test 2,000 feet of 6-inch pipe in sewage collection system number 15.

The work shall be constructed in accordance with the Drawing and Project Manuals (including Specifications) which are available for inspection at the Engineer's Office at 5000 U.S. Highway No. 1, North, Ormond Beach, Florida, and at the office of the City Clerk, City Hall, Belle Glade, Florida.

Copies of the Drawings and Project Manuals may be obtained from Brierly, Wild & Associates, Consulting Engineers & Planners, P.O. Box 807, Ormond Beach, Florida, 32074, or from the City of Belle Glade, 110 S.W. Ave. E, Belle Glade, Florida, 33410, upon receipt of a deposit of $50.00.

Deposit checks should be made payable to Brierly, Wild & Associates.

One-half of the deposit will be refunded upon return of the Drawings and Project Manuals in satisfactory condition within thirty (30) days after receipt of bids.

The Owner reserves the right to reject any and all bids, and the award, if award is made, will be made to the lowest responsible bidder whose qualifications indicate the award will be in the best interest of the Owner and whose proposal complies with all the prescribed requirements.

Bids shall be:

1. Submitted on standard forms which will be furnished with the Project Manuals.
2. Accompanied by a certified check (drawn in favor of the City) or by a Bid Bond in the amount of ten percent (10%) of the total bid.

3. Irrevocable after the time and date set for the opening of bids and for a period of thirty (30) days thereafter.
4. Submitted in sealed envelopes marked "Bid for Avenue 'G' Sanitary Sewer Collection System Rehabilitation, Belle Glade, Florida." In addition, the bidder's name and address shall be shown on the outside of the sealed envelope. If submitted by mail, the sealed envelope shall be enclosed in a separate mailing envelope.

The City of Belle Glade reserves the right to waive informality and to reject any or all bids.

The rear engine design of a SNAPPER rider provides unobstructed visibility, less fatigue from engine heat, exhaust and noise, and a smoother cut resulting from less matting of grass in front of the cutting unit. With a short wheelbase, less weight on the front tires and no gears in the steering mechanism you get immediate response steering for cutting in tight places.

Add in: On-the-go adjustment of cutting height and speed; the floating cutting unit; minimum scalping and damage.

Before you buy a rider, compare the quality and performance features of a SNAPPER. You'll find SNAPPER is worth more because it does more. And, its price is competitive with other quality mowers.

Park opening planned

BELLE GLADE - Three tournaments and children's activities headline the events slated for the grand opening of Airport Park, due to take place July 26-27 and City Manager Robert Sanders said all or most of the work at the park will be completed by that time. A number of city residents have already been making use of the park softball field, racquetball courts and playgrounds for the past two weeks while the finishing touches are still being applied to the construction. Sanders told city commissioners Monday during a workshop that the final piece of major construction work is scheduled to be completed July 25, when the contractor's work on the concession stand is finished. The commissioners gave tacit approval to Sanders during a workshop Monday to open the park with tournaments in softball, tennis and racquetball. There will also be children's activities such as volleyball, kickball and low organized games under the supervision of city recreational staff members.

The events will be kicked off, according to tentative plans, with an opening ceremony involving city officials and an area high school band. That is set for 10 a.m., July 26.

At 11 a.m., the three tournaments will start. The softball tournament will be open to teams in the city league and trophies will be given to the first, second and third place teams.

The tennis tournament will be set up in men's and mixed doubles with trophies going to first and second place winners.

The racquetball tournament will be divided into men's and women's singles, men's and women's doubles and mixed doubles with trophies going to first and second place winners.

Sanders said there will be a $5 per person-per event entry fee. This means each member of a softball team, for instance, must pay a $15 fee.

The commissioners gave the go-ahead for the grand opening plans but made no decision on another matter concerning the park.

Sanders told the commission Mike Underwood, owner of All-Pro Sporting Goods suggested the city allow his store to supply items such as softballs, tennis balls, tennis shoes to the concession stand on a consignment basis with the city taking a small profit.

The commissioners said the proposal sounded good to them but they directed Sanders to check it with City Attorney John Baker for legalities.

The commissioners gave Sanders a go-ahead with one other matter relating to the park, however. They told him to go ahead and hire a concession stand manager and attendant and a recreation leader and assistant as well as two groundskeepers to take care of the grounds at Airport and Lake Shore Parks.

LOOKING OVER the construction of a new sewer treatment plant in South Bay, acting City Manager Lomax Harrelle, and Sanders, Osha and Anderson engineers Jeff Renault and Dan Schmidt were making an inspection tour of the facility Monday afternoon. The 1.5 million gallon facility now being installed will quadruple the city's treatment capacity but Harrelle and Renault said the real advantages lie in the concrete and fiberglass construction, which will be easier to maintain than the present steel construction, and the fact the newer process will require one third of the power now used.

City sued by tenants

BELLE GLADE - Okeechobee Center Cries Help (OCCCH) has filed suit in U.S. District Court charging the City of Belle Glade and the Belle Glade Housing Authority with racial discrimination and violations of the tenants of the Okeechobee Center rights guaranteed them by the 19th, 14th and 15th amendments of the Constitution.

An all-black tenants' association, which holds leases with the Belle Glade Housing Authority claimed that the conditions in Okeechobee Center, a low-rent housing project near Belle Glade are "substandard and un-inhabitable."

The suit also alleges that neglect by the Belle Glade Housing Authority and crowded, unsanitary and dilapidated conditions created by the neglect is a violation of the 19th amendment which abolished slavery.

OCCCH charges the Housing

Authority violated the due process of the 14th amendment by failing to provide procedures for hearings prior to evictions, or procedures for complaints concerning the condition of the property.

The suit, filed by the Florida Rural Legal Services for the residents also seeks the annexation of Okeechobee Center into the City of Belle Glade.

The OCCCH alleges that, "because Okeechobee Center is not in the city, it does not receive equal municipal services with Osceola Center, which is the other project administered by the housing authority."

The suit says: "Osceola Center also has had better maintenance and better care than Okeechobee Center. The Housing Authority only desegregated Osceola Center, recently, and then only after a federal lawsuit was filed the suit states. • During the time it was all white, Osceola Center was annexed into the City of Belle Glade on the initiative of the city. Even though there have been numerous attempts and requests by the residents of Okeechobee Center to be annexed, the City has refused each one.

• The city of Belle Glade has accomplished over 15 annexations in the last 15 years. However, the city has refused to annex Okeechobee Center because its residents are black and this will increase the black voting populations.

• The city of Belle Glade has worked with the Housing Authority in its efforts to keep the black residents disenfranchised. The city has done this intentionally and for the sole purpose of keeping the black residents of Okeechobee Center from voting in municipal elections.

Four inmates escape GCI

BELLE GLADE - Law enforcement officers were still searching Wednesday morning for four prisoners who escaped early Tuesday morning from Glades Correctional Institution. The four inmates were discovered to be missing from their close custody dormitory at 5 a.m. Tuesday after they apparently sawed through iron bars over a window and made it over the fence.

The escapees were identified as:

- Richard Riden of West Palm Beach, convicted of the burglary last year of the Gucci Jewelry Shop in Palm Beach.
- Wayman Bradshaw of Broward County, convicted for grand larceny.
- William Barbre of Palm Beach County, convicted for burglary.
- James Layfield of Dade County, convicted for murder.

A Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office spokesman said Wednesday morning the escapees were still at large and being sought.

Connell's is one of the few stores in Belle Glade that have been around for quite a while, since 1961 to be exact. Connell's expanded to double the size in 1974 to include new items and increased variety. New merchandise included areas other than hardware, such as clothing, sporting goods and housewares.

In 1976 the present manager, Mike Marr came to Connell's from Jacksonville, where he worked as an education specialist for A. B. Dick Co.

Shortly after Mike Marr joined the Connell's staff, the store expanded a second time that brought about a new parking lot and outside enclosure. Also more new items were added and a section for plumbing equipment and fixtures.

At present Connell's is the only full service hardware store, says Marr, in the Glades offering general hardware, electrical and plumbing accessories and paint in addition to a variety of items consisting of Justin boots, Lee, Ely Walker and Dee Cee Western attire.

Fishing tackle in a large assortment and hunting supplies and accessories. Connell's combines all the areas they feel would offer a complete full service hardware store to the glades.

Will DER Try To Save Lake Tahoe?

Editor's note: Reprinted with permission of Florida Angler.

On several occasions FLA has complained publicly about the millions of gallons of improperly treated sewage flowing daily into Shingle Creek, Lake Toho, into the Kissimmee Basin and ultimately into Lake Okechobee, from origins in Orlando, Kissimmee, St. Cloud and private developments. At a public hearing in Orlando in February, 1980, FLA Executive Director, Walter Hundley spoke of FLA's concern about this problem.

As a result, the Enforcement Branch of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) contacted FLA for data on the matter. FLA called Mr. Jerry Banks, Chief of Fisheries, Florida Game & Fresh Water Fish Commission (G&FWFC) and asked that he provide the most recent data gained from their biologists' sampling of these waters. FLA further suggested that his office make a special effort to have their biologists work on an update of water sampling in the target area.

Mr. Vince Williams, Fishery Biologist, G&FWFC, called FLA and provided the information, which was relayed to the office of EPA.

In June, 1979, a brief report had been prepared by G&FWFC dealing with phosphorus concentrations in Lake Toho. The report was circulated to the Osceola County Commission and the Florida Department of Environmental Regulation (DER)—the state agency responsible for water quality. The intent was to alert these governmental bodies to the factors causing destruction of aquatic habitat in Lake Toho. At the County Legislative delegation meeting held in February, 1980, several legislators expressed interest in information prepared by G&FWFC on the subject. Water sampling was conducted in February, 1980 and an updated report was compiled by Biologist Williams, dated March 31, 1980. In addition to G&FWFC at one time or another, Osceola County, Orange County and DER had been involved in monitoring nutrient input to Lake Toho. Much of the work by these bodies had dealt with standard measures usually applied to wastewater treatment plants.

These measurements can be misleading, however, in that they do not relate directly to nutrient concentrations. The problem is that once nutrients are introduced to reach Lake Toho, the chemicals contained therein contribute to the lake's productivity and are expressed biologically as algae blooms, or in the growth of nuisance aquatic vegetation, such as water hyacinths and ludwigia. These plants contribute to the destruction of native aquatic vegetation, necessitate expensive and biologically damaging aquatic weed control activities, and increase the rate at which sediment deposits build up on the lake bottom.

These factors directly cause the decline of aquatic habitat and subsequently decrease numbers of both desirable fish food organisms and sportfish present within the lake basin. The final result is a net loss in recreational fishing opportunity and accompanying decline in the lake's economic value to the community. Four major sewage treatment plants discharge into Lake Toho. It has generally been assumed that the massive plant discharges from Orlando and Orange County are purified by natural biological uptake within the Shingle Creek swamp system. This appears not to be the case. Shingle Creek has been channelized in Orange County within a mile or so north of the Osceola County line, and many of the tributary streams and adjacent cypress heads have also been ditched and drained. While the water from these adjacent areas tends to dilute nutrient concentrations, the channelized section of Shingle Creek proper does not possess the capability for nutrient removal.

There is little doubt in the minds of biologists familiar with Lake Toho that it will probably suffer a Lake Apopka-like collapse within the next decade. That is—the lake will no longer be capable of supporting a recreational sportfishery which presently generates millions of dollars in revenue for the local economy.

The lake cannot be maintained through any management techniques, including periodic drawdowns. If massive nutrient discharge from sewage treatment plants is allowed to continue unabated, if Lake Toho does collapse, the other downstream lakes in the chain will undoubtedly do the same.

Although numerous governmental sponsored studies have been and are still being conducted, to date no nutrient removal has taken place. In fact, sewage discharge has increased from 7 million gallons per day in 1971 to an estimated 22 million gallons per day in 1980.

"Regulatory agencies should mandate removal of nutrient materials from the discharge, or the removal of the discharge itself from the watershed, within the next five years," Williams wrote. The longer we wait to implement solution, the closer we come to losing a valuable resource."

It should be noted that G&FWFC is using the staff for these water quality tests and has conducted two drawdowns in the past 10 years to expose the lake bottom to sunlight to cleanse the waters in spite of the fact that the state agency charged with the responsibility of protecting water and air quality is DER.

FLA calls upon DER to coordinate the water quality tests and to coordinate the state without further delay.

Area Report

From all around the Lake reports from Marina and Fish Camp operators indicate that fishing is falling back into a more predictable pattern. Just two weeks ago if you didn't have your fish by 9 or 10 a.m. you could, in most cases, just forget about it until late afternoon or early evening. Currently there are days when Bass will not become active until 10 a.m. The same goes for Panfish. This should be good news for those who are not partial to rising in the small wee hours.

As an example of the above, Dick Vance of Anglers Marina reports parties going out in the late hours of the morning and the afternoon get good action on Bass. He further advises that Bass are moving into the Rim Canal in greater numbers and fish to 5 pounds are not uncommon. Good fishing is also available in the deeper waters in Peppergrass Beds. Prime lures are Top Water types along with spoons and skirts and plastic worms.

Good Bluegill fishing is still being enjoyed and they have moved into the Peppergrass beds where live crickets are getting most of the fish. Larry Moore of Twin Palms in Moore Haven area says Bass have been on the prowl these past few days. For example, one party of six brought in 55 Bass and released 35 in one day using live shiners. And they had Bass to 6 lbs. Robert Fuller of TV's "Emergency One" fishing with Glen Hunter brought in 12 Bass to 5 pounds using number 1 Top Water Lure and plastic worms.

Bluegills continue to be very active and are coming in good size and are taking live crickets, popping bugs and beetle spins.

Shellerackers have been hitting well and are taking live worms. Gordon Corbin of Slim's Camp in Belle Glade reports Bass are being taken in the Rim Canal and the Peppergrass beds in the deeper water. Top Water lures are the best producers followed closely by plastic worms. Bluegill are being taken in the same areas with live crickets being the best bait. No sign of Shellerackers.

Florida Advisory Board Established

A blue-ribbon FLA Advisory Board has been formed, structured to function in a three-step process to disseminate marine research information to the general public. Prestigious scientists will submit relevant fishery information—which is available from the major state universities and scientific organizations—to the noted authors and writers who will, through their expertise, translate it into readable and understandable form. The third element of the Advisory Board—the business and professional men—will then present the resulting reports to the public as an education process.

The following have agreed to serve on the FLA Advisory Board:

Dr. David Anthony, Professor of Biochemistry, University of Florida—former president of Florida Defenders of the Environment, Inc.

Dr. Archie Carr, Senior Graduate Professor, Department of Zoology, University of Florida—world renowned for saving the Green Sea Turtle.

Dr. Donald DeSilva, Rosenstiel School of Marine and Atmospheric Sciences, University of Miami.

Vic Dunaway, outdoor writer, author, editor of Florida Sportsman Magazine.

Ernie Fous, retired bank manager, founder and first president of South West Anglers Club.

Capt. Ray Gues, retired senior service officer, Florida Marine Patrol.

Dr. Robert J. Livingston, Department of Biological Sciences, Florida State University.

Professor Arthur R. Marshall, science consultant, recently completed a report for the Everglades Protection Association calling for a partial restoration program for the Everglades.

William W. Felt, Chairman of the Board, Everglades Protection Association.

Dan Schooner, Vice-President, Eckerd Drug Company.

Mark Sosin, noted author on saltwater topics.

Bob Stearns, freelance outdoor writer, Boating editor of Outdoor Life.

Editor of Outdoor Life.

"It is our plan, and hope, to make this diverse association meaningful for bringing about fishery reforms in Florida," Lyman E. Rogers, Chairman of the FLA Advisory Board told the FLA Trustees at their April 6 meeting in Tampa. "Working in concert with the FLA Fishery Habitat Committee, we will seek to get the scientific facts, publish them and keep the public advised of the state of the Florida fishery, both fresh and saltwater."

A Case Report:

The Kissimmee River Canal

Reprinted with permission of the Florida Angler.

Only yesterday—before the importance of wetlands in controlling pollution was recognized—few people questioned a decision to destroy river marshes in an effort to prevent flooding of agricultural areas. Lake Okechobee acts as a massive reservoir in south central Florida. An important site for commercial and sport fishing, the lake supplies drinking water to the southern part of the state during dry seasons. In the mid-1960's the slowly meandering 100-mile Kissimmee River, which flowed south from Lake Kissimmee to Lake Okechobee, was transformed into a 50-mile straight-cut canal at a cost of $30 million. In 1976 the Florida Legislature adopted the Kissimmee River Restoration Act, which may result in replacement of the 70 million cubic yards of earth removed when engineers changed the winding river into a 30-foot-wide-by-three-foot-deep channel. The legislature did not spell out what it meant by "restoration," and a number of alternate plans are now being drawn, but it is generally agreed that as the canal now functions, it will gravely endanger drinking water quality in southern Florida by contributing to the accelerated eutrophication of Lake Okechobee.

How did this happen? What went wrong?

Southern Florida suffered severe flooding in 1947 and 1948. In the late 1950's when the plan was formulated for Canal C-38—the project designed to develop for farming and cattle grazing in this predominantly agricultural area. In periods of heavy rainfall, runoff from these grazing lands was now sent into the canal and down to Lake Okechobee without benefit of the former pollution removal services of the marshes.

Lakes in southern regions are particularly susceptible to eutrophication because of factors which cannot be controlled—warm temperatures, high light intensity, and a long population in the river valley. river valley. Flood control urgent than the future of bass and wood ducks and the project was approved and completed.

Before channelization the winding course of the river and its 45,000 acres of wetlands slowed and filtered the passage of water on its route to Lake Okechobee. In periods of heavy rainfall, waters were slowed even more as they overflowed a 1-mile broad, flat floodplain. After channelization the floodplains, protected from overflow, were developed for farming and cattle grazing in this predominantly agricultural area. In periods of heavy rainfall, runoff from these grazing lands was now sent into the canal and down to Lake Okechobee without benefit of the former pollution removal services of the marshes.

Lakes in southern regions are particularly susceptible to eutrophication because of factors which cannot be controlled—warm temperatures, high light intensity, and a long growing season. A 1972 report by the University of Miami on the Kissimmee-Okechobee Basin concluded that the canal was a major factor in the accelerated lake eutrophication, with resultant water quality deterioration, and it recommended halting the discharge of all waste materials into the basin and developing a plan for reforesting the marshes of the lower Kissimmee Valley. The report estimated that a 1,500-acre marsh can use nearly all the nitrogen and one-fourth the phosphorus contained in the effluents from sewage treatment plants serving a community of 62,000 people.

Plans to restore the Kissimmee River and marshes vary in their assessments of financial and engineering feasibility. But it is hard to find anyone involved who looks with pride on Canal C-38, constructed only a decade ago when nearly everyone thought that wetlands in marshy, swampy southern Florida were the most expendable of all environments.

Fishing Tips

BEFORE you go fishing make certain that your fishing license is current. For someone to renew your license can be a very costly omission and can entirely ruin your weekend plans. A fishing license is a low cost item compared with a fine. The Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission issued 840 citations in May of this year compared with 120 for the same month in 1979. Fishing licenses are available at all county tax collectors offices and sub-agents throughout the state. With few exceptions, they are required of everyone except residents age 65 and over and children under the age of 15. Residents in their home county do not require a license when fishing with no more than three poles. Fishing with a rod and reel anywhere requires a license. As a matter fact, why don't you check your license right this moment?

Bass Club News

The Monkey Box Boys Bass Club of Moore Haven had their monthly Tournament last week and had 44 entries. The team of Sam and Dennis Griffin placed first with a total weight of 28 pounds 13 ounces. They won a real squeaker over the second place team of Sheldon Bond and Alvin Ward Jr. who came in with 28 pounds 5 ounces.

Sam Griffin also won the Largest Fish Award with a 7 pound 5 ounce beauty. The Tournament was followed by a Fish Fry with well over 100 people attending.

The next Tournament will be held Sunday, July 20, preceded by a dinner meeting Thursday, July 17.

The Bass Club has a membership of 60 couples and 16 singles. Anyone interested in joining should contact Alvin Ward of Alvin's Bait and Tackle Shop in Moore Haven or any other member of your acquaintance.

U.S.C.G. Auxiliary Flotilla 55 makes safe boating a pleasure

by AILSA DEWING

Nobody enjoys pleasure boating more than they do, and nobody knows more about the perils that can await the unwary or uninformed boater who ventures out on Lake Okechobee.

They are the 17 members of Flotilla 55 of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, a group of men and women who voluntarily stand watch over the lives and safety of Glades area boating enthusiasts.

Although the auxiliary members live in various communities around the lakeshore, their base of operations is a white frame shelllike structure at the Belle Glade marina.

It's there that the flotilla members meet once a month to conduct its business sessions, that educational courses are taught, and that serves as the nerve center during search and rescue operations.

Distress calls for the flotilla's aid run the gamut from requests from wives of fishermen who've failed to return home when expected to rescuing boaters from craft — airborne or waterborne — grounded, disabled or capsized.

Vice Commander Henry Beeks and Donald Aspey were among those who cruised the lake in May searching for the downed aircraft in which two men lost their lives.

"We were out patrolling about eight hours. Then we had to return on account of the roughness," Beeks recalls.

Beeks, a retired salesman, devotes much of his time to the flotilla, serving as public relations officer and filing regulation reports on flotilla activities with the Coast Guard.

In private life, Aspey is the owner of the Belle Glade Machine Works. He serves as secretary-treasurer of the flotilla and, like all other flotilla members, takes his turn at instructing the 13-session courses on all aspects of seamanship.

Because, far from being smug about their extensive skills and know-how of boating, auxiliary members welcome every opportunity to teach and train others and to promote pleasure boating safety.

The members themselves have received special instruction in such skills as navigation, meteorology, marine engines, communications, and rescue operations, and they, in turn, schedule classes and teach others the rudiments of operating and maintaining boats, as well as safety and rescue procedures.

And women are as active as the men in maintaining the effectiveness of the flotilla. Sharon Clayton, for example, is a University of Florida senior studying nuclear engineering. A flotilla member since she was 17, the minimum legal age for membership, she specializes in teaching navigation. Her mother, Myrtle Clayton, a media specialist at Glades Central High School, takes charge of scheduling and arranging instructional sessions.

Joe and Myrtle Clayton were instrumental in organizing the local flotilla in 1973. Until then, Glades residents belonged to the West Palm Beach auxiliary flotilla.

In June the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary observed its 41st anniversary. Founded by a Congressional act in 1939, the auxiliary has since grown to 1,396 flotillas.

Membership is open to U.S. citizens 17 years of age or older who own at least a 25 percent interest in a boat, aircraft, or amateur radio station, or who have a skill or talent useful in the field of recreational boating safety. Last year auxiliary membership totaled 41,700 nationwide.

Flotilla 55 includes 17 volunteers headed by Henry A. Snider of Pahokee, a retired Navy man now serving his second term as the group's commander.

The flotilla has six private boats at its command. Known as operational facilities, the boats display the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary insignia and when operating under orders, fly the auxiliary ensign.

In addition to performing rescue missions and conducting educational courses, the auxiliary also offers courtesy boat inspections. At the request of a boat owner flotilla members do a routine check-up of pleasure boats to determine their seaworthiness and ensure that the owner has necessary safety equipment aboard and that it is functioning properly.

The marine examination is offered as a courtesy service in the interest of promoting boating safety and no violations are reported or ordered to be corrected.

"We have no authority," Commander Snider points out, "we only make suggestions for meeting safety conditions."

Boats which do meet standards set by federal, state, and auxiliary guidelines, however, are issued the Coast Guard Auxiliary decal.

The value of the auxiliary in this state cannot be underestimated when one takes into consideration the fact that Florida is second only to California in the number of boating accidents in a year. In 1979, for example, 585 boats were involved in accidents in Florida waters resulting in 111 deaths and 182 injuries.

Auxiliary members can take pride in the fact, however, that over the past five years, the number of boat accidents in Florida has declined. In 1975, 620 accidents were reported as compared with 508 in 1979.

The Glades flotilla boasts a "fleet" of nine boats ready to be put into service anytime of the day or night a distress call is sounded on the lake. Six of the boats are docked in Belle Glade and the other three are located in Pahokee, Clewiston and Moore Haven.

The boats' skippers are well-seasoned in their knowledge of the lake and well-trained in navigation and rescue procedures.

And if anyone else would like to come on board, the flotilla can always use some extra hands.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER, Myrtle and Sharon Clayton, are active members of the flotilla and serve as instructors in the auxiliary training sessions. In addition, Myrtle Clayton has charge of arranging the classes.

READY TO CAST off at a moment's notice are three of the 17 members of Flotilla 55 of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary: Donald Aspey, Commander Henry A. Snider and Vice Commander Henry Beeks. They are shown beside Beeks' 16-foot craft which has seen its share of search and rescue missions on the lake.

Hospital employees honored

BELLE GLADE — Three employees were honored at Glades General Hospital Tuesday when they were named employees of the month for April, May and June.

Employee of the month for April was Wilma Royal of the Medical Records Department. Dora Kendall of Housekeeping was employee of the month for May and Patty Hood, R.N., was named employee of the month for June.

Hospital Administrator Pat Lennon cited Mrs. Royal for her qualities as an employee, saying she began working at the hospital in 1977 and this year she completed a correspondence course to become an accredited medical records technician. "She is probably the only typist in the hospital," he quipped, "who goes through a ribbon a day."

Mrs. Kendall began working at Glades General in 1969 in the Dietary Department.

can catch it just watching the six o'clock news.

To a Floridian in July, a slow shuffle is a feverish pace. A flick of the wrist takes 20 minutes.

At one o'clock in the afternoon it doesn't matter if you read the time or the temperature on the bank clock. They're even, Steven.

An exciting afternoon in Florida during July is sitting around watching for rain. The humidity is so high the birds sit on it. A long winded conversation is a blessing if it creates any kind of a breeze.

A wet T-shirt isn't something to wear for a contest, it's formal attire.

Florida in July. It's the only time I really feel comfortably warm. I love it.

In his dry and unassuming manner, Pahokee Councilman Hugo Rainier brightens some of the corners during council sessions.

The other night the council got into one of its "why couldn't we" types of informal meandering discussions. The topic concerned the feasibility of providing a safe swimming area along the lakeshore for kids who are presently swimming in the marina — a situation far from safe or sane.

Talk centered on means of roping off a swimming area. Floating barrels and ropes were duly discussed and the suggestion discarded: the kids would only untie the barrels and pontoon around on them, councilmen agreed.

Rainier had a better idea. "The only thing that would stop them," he stated, "would be barbed wire."

Nobody, we're happy to report, put that in the form of a motion.

Florida in July. The whole state should be declared a disaster area. A Floridian in July could make the Guinness book of world records for suspended animation if he'd only remembered to notice the time before he sat down last week.

In Florida in July you can get third degree burns just sitting on a car seat in shorts. You get first degree burns just off the shorts.

In Florida in July a hot dog is the only kind of the shorts.

Just the effort of watching an ice cube melt is enough to make you sweat.

In Florida in July everybody's waiting for vacation. Even those who haven't come back yet.

Slow cook, simmer and steam aren't cooking instructions; they're weather forecasts. Wait till the sun shines, Nellie, isn't a promise; it's a threat.

To a Floridian in July a season in hell sounds as good as a trip to the mountains.

Nothing ever reaches the saturation point. Everything starts from there.

HISTORY OF AGRICULTURE in America, a Smithsonian Institute display, is on loan at the Belle Glade Library this month. Custodian David Wooten set up the exhibit earlier this week in the Lawrence Will Museum. Staff photo by Allan Dewing

Ag display at library

BELLE GLADE The history of American agriculture is told in pictures and text in a display now at the Municipal Library.

Provided by the Smithsonian Institute, the traveling exhibit is sponsored by the Florida Department of State and the Museum of Florida History.

The exhibit shows the transformation of American agriculture from its early days when it provided individual families a livelihood through its present role as agribusiness.

Farming methods and implements of the 18th century are shown depicted and followed through their sequential development into today's practices.

The exhibit points out that whereas in 1776 90 percent of the nation's population were one-family subsistence farmers, fewer than five percent of Americans are now engaged in farming.

The exhibit will be on display here through July 31 and can be seen during library hours: Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m.; Thursday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.; and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Librarian Phyllis Lilley requests that groups planning to visit phone 995-3453 in advance.

Services planned

BELLE GLADE Church services will be held from 4 to 6 p.m. Saturdays at the city's loading ramp between Southwest Fifth and Sixth Streets in an effort to reach youngsters in the city.

City Commissioners gave permission during a Monday night workshop to the Rev. Egion Gayle and Youth Director Frank Anderson of the Church of God by Faith to hold the services.

The Rev. Gayle and Anderson said they believe that if they can reach some of the youths in the area, they may be able to get them off the streets and divert them from the use of drugs and bad habits.

Police Chief D. Bill Mathis, charged with the responsibility of issuing a permit for such services, said he is behind what the minister and his church are attempting to do but said he wanted a decision from the city commission because issuing such a permit could set a precedent. "I don't know if the loading ramp is the best place for it."

"I was born and raised here in Belle Glade," Anderson said. "I'm proud of what the city is trying to do. We're not trying to cause a disturbance or disruption of any kind. We're just trying to help somebody."

Rev. Gayle and Anderson said they are only planning the one service right now.

It came roaring out of the northeast like a freight train. In a matter of minutes, it had changed the lives of hundreds of people and left a path of death and destruction that few would ever forget.

Why do twisters come? And why are some lives taken and property destroyed, while the lives and homes of others are spared without a scratch?

The laws of nature are mysterious. We can only marvel at the power revealed through violent storms and try to be as best prepared for them as possible. We have the promise of our Lord to be with us: "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

One day we will know the answers to many questions that have long troubled us. Until then we can only "trust in the Lord with all our hearts and lean not unto our own understanding."

KEEPING THE FAITH

by REV. JOEED McGAHEY

"Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord and the people whom He hath chosen for His inheritance," Psalm 33:12

When our forefathers came to this vast land, they came to worship God.

We forget that, and that fact is even being taken out of some of our modern history books. One can not help but recognize God's hand upon the people who established this land as a nation, The United States. This does not mean they had no faults and that all of our forefathers were Christians, they were not. They did, however, as a whole recognize their dependence on God if they were to establish a new nation of freedom. The freedom they sought to establish and indeed, did establish, was the freedom to worship God. They had no thought of establishing a freedom from worship or divorced from a very real relationship to God.

At the end of the second meeting of the Constitutional Congress, these men realized that the constitution could not be understood apart from the Bible. Therefore, they raised out of their own pockets $3,000 (which was a lot of money at that time) to buy Bibles to put in public schools.

Then the time came that men came to be in control of our national government who were neither acquainted with our real heritage nor the Word of God. They begin to feel threatened by God's Word and worked to get it out of the schools and its influence removed as much as possible from government and the land.

God cannot, and will not continue to bless a nation that turns its back on Him. When as a nation we seek to lift up immorality as being good, we have left God out of our acceptable way of life. When it becomes more acceptable to lift up the acceptance of atheism and immorality than it is to talk about the ways of God—we are in trouble.

So where are we today? As a nation we have become weak morally, with a corrupt government, that probably could not defend itself in a military situation. In fact, when we sought to rescue our people being held hostages, it was a complete failure. Why? One thing was very evident—God was NOT with us in that attempt. In fact, when one considers the weather factor in its failure, we need to ask ourselves if God was not even against us.

God has grown tired of our arrogance of our making light of that which is holy, of our wide acceptance of immorality and of our turning our back on that Nation of Israel (for oil). As a nation we must repent, or the price we pay is going to be much higher than most can imagine.

Many of our Christian leaders are calling us to repentance. Wednesdays and Fridays have been set aside as days of fasting and prayer, from dawn until 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon. Will you make these days of fasting and prayer for our nation?
